FEASIBLE, IS REPORT

Have a piece of pie. Top crust short as a busy cook's temper crackly short and feather flaky. Bottom crust "biscuity"-no

Yet for all you can taste of shortening "greasiness" you'd never know there was a speck of shortener in it.

That's because it's made with Crusto. Crusto has no taste of its own-result, it brings out all the flavor of the other ingredients. It is odorless. Not only does it make delicious pastry but wholesome pastry, too. Better than lard, and as cheap-cheaper than cooking butter and better. Try it.
